The world famous Brothers Byrne will present their pantomimic comedy, Eight Bells, at the Broadway theater this evening.

production this season will be a great novelty, nothing like it having been seen here before. It contains within itself a musical comedy, a farce comedy, a partomime, a spectacular play, a circus, besides burlesque which help to make material constructed for mughing purposes only, and in all the Brothers Byrne and players fully succeed. The first scene is a pretty one representing two gardens divided by high brick walls with a cottage on each side. During this scene a number of religious middless take sites of of ridiculous incidents take place after each other so quickly that one's breath is almost taken away.

The second scene is a steamer's deci and what takes place here is beyon description. The rapidity of the action is above memorizing, the reader must see for himself. This scene by a quick change and really wonderful mechanism turns into a big ship at sea; four adjoining staterooms of an Atlantic steamer are shown, and while the ship is rolling on the high waves a number of necoliar acrossite. of peculiar acrobatic features are performed by the inimitable Brothers

Byrne, some of which are startling.

The third act represents an island upon which the ship has been wrecked and here occurs a number of first class specialties terminating with a funny the second control of the contro fire scene, one of the most laughable effects ever produced.

LINCOLN PARK.

Last Fortnight of Season Opens Today. People who like Lincoln park and its varied attractions, as well as the peo-ple in Norwich and Westerly and else-where that have put off their visits to the preity little pleasure spot on the banks of the pond at Hallville, will have to get busy from this time out if they mean to get their full abare of the good times offered this season by the management. Saturday, Sept. 4, will, it is now expected, be the park's fast day. All this week Rustic theater is to present what promises to be a high grade bill. As usual, Manager Cran-ston has arranged for five acts. Nat Gill, the ventriloquist, is understood to Gill, the ventriloquist, is understood to be very clever and amusing, Hamilton and Howlett in "Beuben Haskins." a metry musical comedy act, play skilfully on hanjo, guitar and violin. Marie Elmer, bailadist and singing comedienne, is a finely costumed and very attractive young woman with a rare voice and who has made a great hill as a singer at some of the big. bit as a singer at some of the big food fairs in the large cities of the country. Barlow and Franklin have a comedy skit, "Bits from Hore and There," which introduces some taking songs and dances. Stirk and London, acrobatic cyclists and barrel jumpers, who were the last act of the Morrow and Heins ministrel show, which did so well on the road all last season, should delight the lovers of trick wheeling and tumbling.

Thursday night, as usual, there will be fireworks at the park, but this time, it should be remembered, the display is to commence at 8 o'clock, just as the 7.45 car from the square gets in. The evening show will follow at $.20, as usual.

Yesterday's free concert was enjoyed by a good sized company from Norwich and points down the line.

BREED THEATER.

The Renunciation, Biograph Wild Woolly West Feature.

As a headliner the Breed theater will show today the great drama of the wild and woolly west entitled The Renunciation. This powerful story of the Yellow Hill mining camp is most fascinating and the tremendous influence of a coquette's eyes is clearly shown and the moral is most apparent. The picture is not without its thrills, for on several occasions is the spectator brought to his fect as the action is carried to a climax. The rough and ready mining characters are truthfully portrayed, while all of the biograph favorites are to be seen in the cast. Conspicuous among the other feature pictures are the following ones: Led Astray, a splendid adaptation of the famous East Lynne; The Dramatist Dream, Child Love, the big hit entitled The King's Conspicacy and the edu-The King's Conspiracy and the edu-

WHAT THE PAPERS SAY.

Unredeemed Profession. few short months ago the legis ture was culogizing the character of overnor Lilley and professing ad-tration for his plans. How sincere its talk was is shown by its own record of repudiation of nearly every measure that he so strenuously advocated. It is a mighty poor tribute to the memory of an honest man and loyal citizen.—Bristol Press.

Not an Ubiquitous Governor. Hard luck! Governor Weeks can-not be in two places at once. He feels that he should both be on the firing line in the sham battle at Boston and on the firing line in the state legisla-ture. Of the two, the latter is the more hazardous, and therefore, brave man that he is, he has chosen that as his lot. After withstanding the on-slaught of the enemy near Boston for a few hours, yesterday, he returned to Court.

Waller's Ambition.

Does former Governor Waller believe that the tendency of the times is toward a too complicated system of city government? Such would seem to be the case, if one were to judge from a recent interview given out by him, in which he said in part: "Perhaps if the whole scheme of city government should be changed—as other city governments are being changed (and for examents are being changed (and for should be changed—as other city gov-ernments are being changed (and for the better, I think)—so that there would be no more than five city offi-cials, including the mayor, and so that the officials should be a board of public works controlling all expenditures at an annual salary of five hundred del-

That man of glory I'd like to rob
Who made two grass blades grow
Where only one was on the job
Before he got his hoe.
The fellow, though, has such a let
Of joilles at him thrown
That I confess it makes me hot,
For better men I've known.

There is another kind of man
Whose efforts show his worth—
You'd better praise him all you can
While yet he is on earth.
He is a man of troubles who

VACATIONS.

Up in the mountains,
Down by the sea,
Sailing the ocean,
By streamlet and tree,
Automobiling,
Een in a balloon,
Vacation time's passing—
It will end soon.

Summer is speeding. Autumn is near.
Flower time's ending.
Comes season drear.
Night shades fall sooner,
Dull grows the sky.
Playtime is passing.
Work time draws nigh.

Yet is work's power
Born in light play:
Energy springs up
From rest's loiling day
A moment's dropped burdens
Gives strength none to shirk;
So good-by to playtime
Means welcome to work
